100 ARTISTS PROJECT

The association between aids charity RED and Converse has gone from strength to strength and this year has seen the 100 artists project brought to life. The outline of the project was the 100 artists across the world could put their design on a blank Converse shoe and it would be produced, with a percentage of the proceeds going to the RED charity.

To celebrate the release of the new season hundred artists range, Converse on Carnaby street is currently hosting an exhibition of some of the original shoes as designed by the artists. The exhibition will be running until the 10th November at size? Carnaby Street.

HAVE YOUR CAKE AND EAT IT

Cake is a fresh event from our guys at the Leeds store. It's a lot more than just a plain old club night. Each one is much more of an individual event. Along with playing some of the coolest eclectic sounds we bring you free Cakes each month and the chance to win awesome free product. Future plans include hosting live arts events, fashion shows, product launches, live music, and a ton of brand events next year. It's held on the last Thursday of each month in one of the coolest spaces in the city and its even free to get in! Check the MySpace or look for flyers in all the usual places for what's happening at the next Cake night. See you there.

NEW CRACK CITY

Size? Covent Garden new recruit Alex Hughes has got a side project going on he'd like to introduce to you all...

New Crack City Clothing is an urban clothing brand started in 2007 by Alex Hughes, a Young Street Artist and Graphic Designer who wanted to insert his artistic vision into the fashion world, influenced by 80's hip hop, graffiti art, skate boarding and modern inner city living. Combining these elements along with his unique graffiti writing style and flamboyant colourways New Crack City is never less than fresh. New Crack City stands for EXPRESSION, FLAMBOYANCE and INDIVIDUALISM and is not about whats in fashion or what sells on the high street, it is a lifestyle, a way of living were style reigns supreme over everything else. It doesnt matter what you do what matters how you look doing it. New Crack City is not about following it

BRINGBACK COLLECTION_ELEPHANT PRINT:

Inspired by the original Reebok Ventilator colourway which featured elephant hide and fluorescent green and pink. We've taken that distinctive overlay material/pattern and those eye-catching colours and emulated them on 2 more of our iconic profiles, the Court Victory Pump and Pump Omni Lite. Ideal for those that love the OG Ventilator but prefer a more supportive basketball silhouette.

Weapresenting its roots in Basketball, Converse offers an outstanding range of original basketball silhouettes for Size? Details taken from the Converse archives to produce a collection of vintage influenced re-issues to pay homage to their heritage. Highlighting iconic court shoe silhouettes, Converse mixes the original icon with today's materials and colourways.

Fastbreak

'Fastbreaks' were hugely popular in the early 1980's - originally this shoe came out in 1984 for the inline Basketball product with a cup sole. It has been tweaked for 2008 with a vulcanised execution and the iconic Converse writing on the midsole. Styles have been influenced by key NBA teams such as the New York Knicks, LA Lakers, Chicago Bulls and the Boston Celtics.

Poorman

A take on the Weapon silhouette, the world famous 1970's basketball shoe offers an alternative style for all sneaker freaks. Featuring the star chevron Converse logo, the shoe features the clean styling of the other leather shoes in the collection, but also exhibits unique perforation detailing for an unmistakable look.

Weapon

Synonymous with NBA game play in the 1970's and 80's - especially the court rivalry between Larry Bird and Magic Johnson - create your own team with the Weapon. Extra ankle support thanks to the Weapon's infamous Y design and vulcanised soles for indoor courts and vulcanised soles for additional grip the Weapon silhouette offers unrivalled quality and style for Basketball fans.

Pro Leather

Originally worn by legendary Dr.J (Julius Irving) throughout his entire career, the Pro Leather is recognised by its retro style hi-top and one level sole and helped change the game of basketball as we know it - improving performances both on and off the court. Versions include soft, supple leathers and ultra premium detailing.

In 1975 Harvey Gross established the Penfield brand in Hudson, Massachusetts. Penfield garments became recognized for exceptional quality, reliability and function particularly in down filled jackets and outerwear. Penfield epitomizes the spirit and qualities of New England and the great outdoors. 33 years later Penfield are still making products according to the same basic principles on which the company was founded.

AW 08/09 Penfield's 'Color Block' collection demands attention with its vibrant colors. It's a make over for the Summit, Outback and Falkner that will turn heads wherever they go and will make sure the wearer is the centre of attention. Not just a looker, with striking color combinations, there is also the incredible functionality of the goose down and quality that makes all Penfield's the design benchmark. The Pu Coated water resistant and wind proof nylon is filled with the classic Penfield 80/20 goose down fill to keep you warm.

The colour block range is available at selected stores and online now.

Micropacer

The Micropacers lead the race in tech running shoes with its integrated pedometer and stop-clock. Released here in the OG colourway of silver/blue/red with a slight tweak of a snakeskin application on the toe and heel.

Decade Lo

The original Decade Low seen here was an early 80s hardwood classic albeit undergoing a slight face-lift but still maintaining the original colourway and mix of lush leather and suede.

Strider

Released in 1984 as a mid-cut alternative to the hugely popular Decade, the Strider makes a comeback in its original colourway. The Craftman's update is the addition of an embossed snakeskin pattern to the leather.

Forum Mid

A highly anticipated re-release of the original Forum colourway of white/blue, made to the same specifications as the original but updated with the addition of something common with 80s adidas... snakeskin embossed leather.

Micropacer

A high-tech shoe at it's time has been made more tech with an application of Gore-Tex fabric by Adidas Original's Kwom Kim. A deep ink-blue leather is accented by a colour palette that takes clear inspiration from the pastels of 90s ZX runners.

Decade Lo

The contemporary Decade Lo has a rich mix of leather, embossed leather and nubuck with perforated three stripes. The lack of liner and moccasin style stitching on the toe box take this modern shoe back to the good-old days.

Strider

Kwom Kim has gone all out on his interpretation of a contemporary Strider. Pony hair, seamless three stripes and a liner-free make up are brought together with a palette of cream, dark brown, burgundy and bronze metal eyelets.

Forum Mid

Inspired by leather down jackets, the features are plenty on this updated Forum. Premium black leather and suede is contrasted against an off-white midsole and a crepe sole. Gone is the velcro strap for an unusual snap-button strap.

Its time for round two of NBA meets Adidas here at size?. This season sees two of Adidas's most iconic basketball silhouettes given NBA style make overs. Each shoe features a plethora of team branding as numerous elements such as embossed logos, lace locks, branded laces (alternate laces are available) and insoles are all factored in. The models of choice this season are the Metro Attitude Hi and the Forum low. Whilst the battle on the Metro Attitude Hi's is between the Toronto Raptors and the New Jersey Nets, the teams battling for Forum supremacy are the Phoenix Suns and the LA Lakers.

CLAE

Clae was founded in 2001 by Sung Choi, a seasoned veteran of the streetwear and footwear scene, and experienced designer for some of the most respected brands in the game. With Clae, Choi set out to modernise classic silhouettes without sacrificing the comfort of athletic footwear. Clae's unique approach filled a void in the shoe market for stylish, premium footwear that referenced sneaker culture. Call them what you will, Posh Trainers or Comfortable Shoes, Choi pioneered a new category in footwear which other brands were quick to jump on.

Drawing from timeless design, Clae defines the collection as evolving classics. The highest quality materials and craftsmanship resulting in a diverse range of custom lasted footwear in a variety of materials from full grain and garment leather to cruelty free hemp. Rooted in lifestyle, driven by modern leisure, Clae's styles are at once wholly new and instantly classic.

We are the Superlative Conspiracy

WESC was formed in 2000 by avid skateboarders and snowboarders to provide "life after skate", a more developed style that also targets people outside the skateboard community, but still share its values. One of the most important components of the Superlative Conspiracy is the Wescivists. A Wescivist is someone that is extremely good at what they do, world famous or totally unknown...flying the flag of the Superlative Conspiracy in a variety of subcultures such as skate, music, film and art. The Wescivists include Jason Lee, Scratch Armstrong, Ray Barbée and Ray Montagne, to name a few.

Go to www.wesc.com for more info on the Superlative Conspiracy.

WESC Headphones

A common ground for many Wescivists and WESC consumers is music. Whether it be on the move, in the studio or at home, a good pair of headphones is as important as the sounds you are listening to. Before WESC the choice of headphones was pretty limited. You could either have boring black headphones with great sound quality or cool looking ones with inferior sound quality. WESC has solved this problem by combining premium quality components with the Superlative Conspiracy design ethos. Now your music can sound as good as it looks with a huge range of styles and colourways from WESC.

ADVANCED TRAIL RUNNING

A classic the world over, the New Balance 574 began life as an outdoor running shoe. A chunky sole, quality materials and its lightweight yet sturdy construction made it a huge hit amongst trail runners, and later amongst trainer collectors. This edition of the 574 features a rubber-coated midsole, webbed midsole, chunky laces and ripstop fabric, all with the purpose to better cope with the strains of outdoor running and modern street life. Attention to detail such as the metal air vents and the multiple stitching on the reflective logo make these stand out from the crowd. On or off the trail, these are bound to snap necks wherever they take you.

820

LUXURY TRAIL RUNNING

The 880, originally released in Japan in the '90s, has gained a cult following the world over. The midsole is a mix of ENCAP polyurethane and C-CAP EVA material providing a lightweight yet resilient foundation. Lateral support is aided by a graphite ROLLBAR, one of the key features of the 880. On the left is a trainer influenced by Swiss Army luggage - all silver with touches of black and red. On the right, inspiration is drawn from early 20th Century steamer trunks as used by European elite when crossing the Atlantic to America. A striking palette of colours is brought together in a mix of premium leathers. Things are looking good for New Balance fans this season.

BOLTON ENGLAND

Norman Walsh began making athletics footwear upon leaving school in 1945 at the age of fourteen. His name became known by many top professional athletes around the world and in 1961 he founded Norman Walsh Footwear, occupying part of his father's shoe repair shop.

It is estimated that Norman's family have been involved in footwear since the late 1800's. His father made and repaired clogs for the local mill workers. Initially Norman worked alone, sometimes up to 80 hours a week in order to deal with the high demand for his footwear.

Norman Walsh footwear has continued to grow steadily. The brand is now recognised within the exclusive designer footwear market and is receiving excellent success in Europe and the Far East, with products being placed in exclusive retailers. In addition we are recognised as the leading brand in the UK for off road performance and hill running footwear. The company has invested in worldwide trademark registration of its brand and is the last true British Athletic Footwear Company.

REVAN WATERPROOF

Lacoste has given the Revan 3 the waterproof treatment this winter. Waterproof leathers and nubucks, lined with Sympatex, and the addition of a bellows tongue will ensure dry feet in the winter months. The two colourways are well suited to the dirty, rain-filled streets of Britain. Dark brown and black is accented with orient blue and palmer green respectively to brighten up these quality waterproof mid-tops.

The first 100 people to buy either of the waterproof pack will receive a free size? umbrella and a lacoste poncho. See the news section for more information and also the chance to win a waterproof Lacoste watch.

Both colourways are available from November in size? stores nationwide and online at www.size-online.co.uk

EasyRider Washpack

Nothing says 70s styling like nylon and suede. These trail runners hit the scene in '78 when workout wear meant slight canvas shorts and sweatbands to match. Built with rugged outsoles that creep like a slope up the heel, these shoes were constructed to grip terrain and kick up dust like it was nothing. Back in the day, after a rugged run, when mud splattered the uppers like cake, there was only one thing to do—machine wash 'em. Authentically re-issued today, and styled like they've rocked the spin cycle a few times, the Easy Rider is offered in three flawlessly vintage colorways.

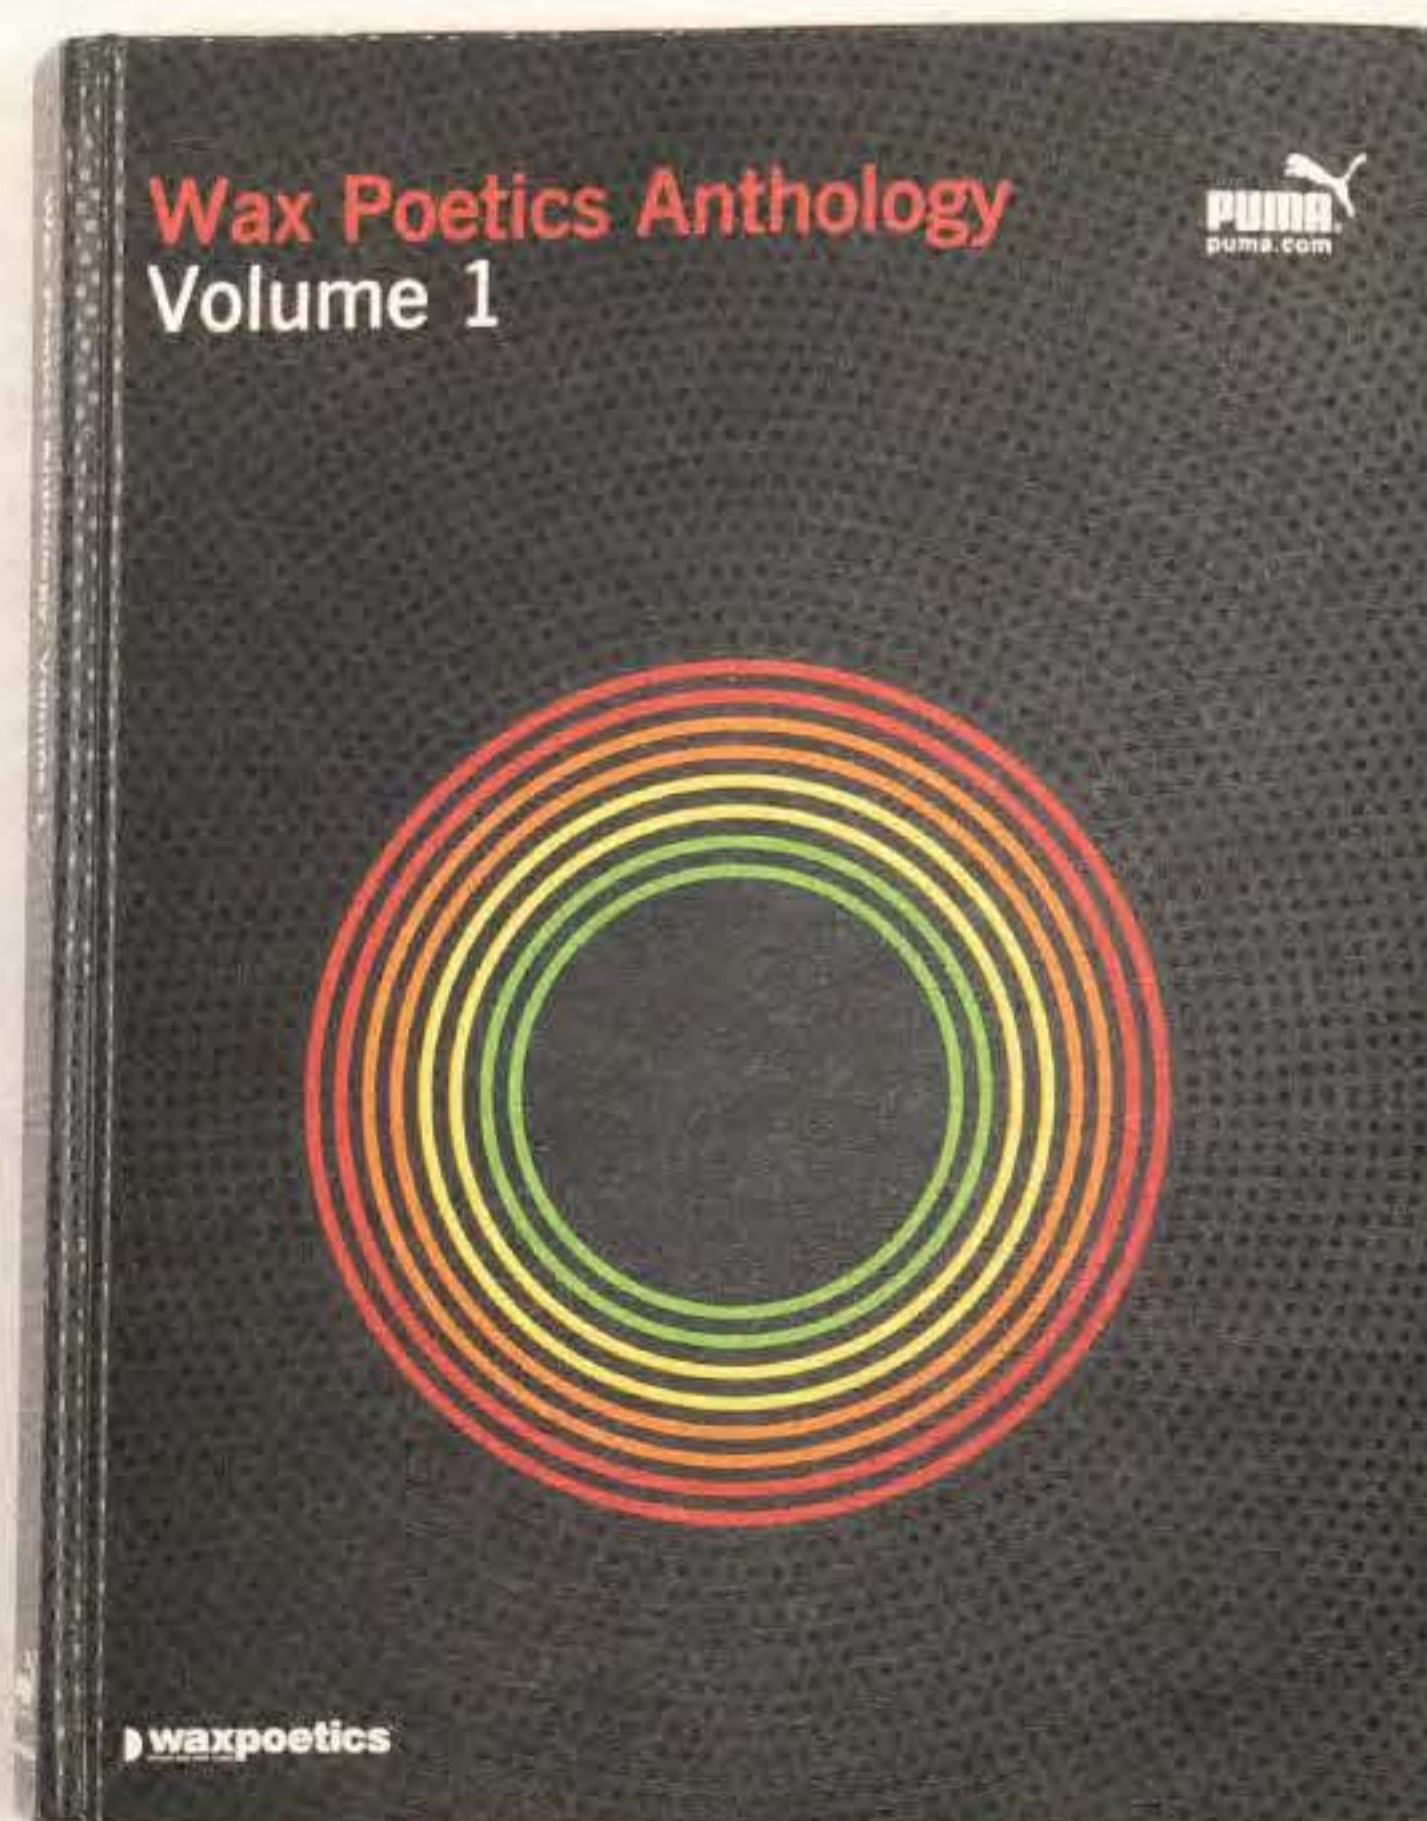

Wax Poetics Anthology

Towards the end of 2000, the idea of Wax Poetics magazine was born. The so-called crate-digging sub-culture was in full bloom, with many many music fans actively participating in an appreciation for the music that came before them. We wanted to learn more about the past and help to recontextualize the present. So we began collecting stories from fellow record addicts and writers - from interviews with jazz legends and obscure funk musicians to contemporary disc jockeys and golden-era hip-hop producers. In December 2001, Wax Poetics Issue 1 was published and surprised even our closest contemporaries with its unique, singular vision and clean design. In the summer of 2007, after twenty-four issues of what has developed into definitive music-history journalism, we compiled our first anthology, culling articles from Issue 1 through Issue 5, which was published in the summer of 2003. We've incorporated new illustrations and photos but left much of the original feel, which, six years later, is starting to seem quite vintage itself. Enjoy the first volume of an even more concise version of Wax Poetics.

Cover Story Album Cover Art

supported by

Wax Poetics contributors were given the assignment to choose twenty albums and pair them up. The only guidelines were that the albums should speak (not necessarily sing) to them - via the cover, the music, or the alchemical symbiosis created through vinyl thaumaturgy that every good collector practises. Easy like Sunday morn.
